Oral Solutions

Our oral solution contains whole cannabis extract in a liquid form. The oral solution is ingested orally and can be taken with foods and beverages of your choice. The solution is alcohol-free. It contains natural flavorings to enhance the taste experience and offers patients with a longer duration of effects. Compared to other cannabis products, oral solutions have a longer onset of effects. Our convenient dropper allows for easy titration and flexibility in dosing to ensure that patients get a consistent dose every time. The oral solution is available in multiple dosage concentrations for your convenience.

Vaporizers

Our single-unit vaporizers are pre-filled with purified cannabis oil made from cannabis plant extract and natural terpenes. Our vaporizer solution does not contain any other oils or harmful additives. The process of vaporizing involves heating the cannabis oil allowing for the active cannabinoids to be inhaled through a mouthpiece on the vaporizer device. Vaporizers are flexible to use and provide quick relief.

Capsules

Our high-quality cannabis capsules contain a precise dose of active cannabinoids in the form of whole cannabis extract. Cannabis capsules provide the therapeutic benefit of cannabinoids in a convenient form for reliable and consistent relief. While this form of ingestion will result in a longer onset of effects, the duration of effect is typically longer. The easy-to-use capsule form offers reliable and consistent dosing with the added benefit of discrete use.

CANNABIS OIL

How long does it takes to feel the effects of cannabis oil?

Ingesting cannabis oils (oral solutions & capsules) are known for a gradual onset of effects compared to inhaled cannabis oils (vaporizers). If ingested, due to the gradual onset, you may be advised by your physician to wait 6 hours before taking another medical cannabis dose. Taking an additional dose within this 6-hour period may cause unwanted side effects, including headache, nausea, and rapid heart rate.
